MARKET COMMENTARY
REVIEW:

Although CBN policy direction going into the year pointed towards a moderation in yields, the level of decline in 2020 has been drastic, as the rates on offer during the year were lower than the preceding years. Bonds were sold at an average rate of 9.84% compared with the 14.00% levels of the previous four years. Furthermore, NTB rates fell even more dramatically, with average stop rates of 2.82% compared against a range of between 11% to 16% levels of the last five years. As a result of this decline in real returns, investors began to favour the equity market.

On the demand side, we expect demand to remain weak in the current yield environment, with investors likely to continue playing in the Equity market, should dividend yields remain attractive. However, with the FG unlikely to be able to unlock significant funds from concessionary loans due to the reluctance to devalue or float the currency, we expect bond supply to increase in 2021 due to budgetary requirements and inflation.

OUTLOOK:

We expect the low yield environment to continue to favour debt raising by corporates. We expect said capital raising to come from firms within the financial services, consumer goods and Industrial goods sectors due to current capital levels, the impact of currency devaluations on capital adequacy which were observed in 2020 and attractive borrowing rates.

Looking forward, we expect the CBN and DMO to attempt to maintain the low yield environment for as long as possible. However, we note that pressure on Foreign Exchange (FX) reserves from FPI's will continue to mount, as investors continue to seek exits from the market as even the foreign investor dominated OMO market has seen yields decline to 8.46% levels. This could force a reversal in yield direction by the second half of the year 2021, especially if crude prices do not recover substantially from current $45/bbl levels.

We expect further focus on short-term borrowing (Commercial Papers) in the coming year due to the current yield environment and capital market realities. We note that Commercial Paper activity this year saw capital in excess of ₦604 billion and $76.52 million raised, at rates of between 5.00% and 7.00% as corporates took advantage of the lack of access to the attractive OMO market. Given our expectation that the CBN will continue to limit access to the OMO market, we foresee even greater demand for CPs in 2021, with funds in excess of ₦1 trillion expected to be raised.
